DETAILED ACTION

The reply filed 7/25/06 amended the claims adding the claim identifiers and remarks related to rejection of claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, see problem to be solved, page two of the arguments, filed 7/14/06, with respect to the rejection(s) of claims under references have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of SHENAI et al. 20030030326 and double patenting.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-24 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims of U.S. Patent No. 7,061,214. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because disclose a single-inductor dual-output buck converter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by SHENAI et al. 20030030326.

Regarding claim 1.

SHENAI et al. discloses a power source (output of 420); a first output that selectively obtains power from the power source (output of 420) through an inductor (switch mode inductor in 476, see paragraph 032); and a second output that selectively obtains power from the first output through the inductor (distribution controller selectively switching between loads) current to different loads having current supplied through switch mode inductor.

Art Unit: 2836

Regarding claim 2.

SHENAI et al. discloses the converter of claim 1, further comprising a first switch that controllably provides power from the power source to the first output (switch in converter 476).

Regarding claim 3.

SHENAI et al. discloses the converter of claim 2, further comprising a second switch that controllably provides the power from the first output to the second output (distribution controller 465 selectively switches the loads).

Regarding claims 4,5.

SHENAI et al. discloses the converter of claim 1, wherein the first output further comprises a first capacitor (490) and a first load (410), wherein the first capacitor stores a charge and is in parallel to the first load.

Regarding claim 6.

SHENAI et al. discloses the converter of claim 1, further comprising a third switch connected to the inductor that selectively causes inductor current to decrease to zero.

This switch is inherent in the switch mode inductor converter.

Regarding claims 7,8.

The converter wherein the convert supplies a specific voltage value and a specific current value are obvious parameters that are dependent on a specific design.

It would be obvious to one to design the convert to supply a load requiring the desired parameters.
